Shreveport Bus Vital to Economy of Hope, Neighbors

It is imperative that Hope and its neighbors along State Highway 29 send a big and forceful delegation to Little Rock Friday to retain the present bus service to Shreveport.

Louisiana has already rejected Continental Trailway's plea for authority to abandon the two-roundtrips-a-day service. The Arkansas Transport Corporation should take the same action—and promptly.

This newspaper has gone along with the transport people in all things reasonable.

We did not oppose the 'Prisco's' cancellation of the dinky that used to run from Hope to Hugo. Its business had literally vanished.

We did not oppose Missouri Pacific when it sought permission to cancel passenger service from Hope to Nashville. The railroad pointed out we still had Missouri Pacific bus service. But later on they sought to cancel the bus service also—and we fought that one.

The Star went along with Louisiana & Arkansas Ry. when it dropped passenger service to Shreveport. We had a bus line to fall back on.

But now that the bus line is threatened it's time for a community-wide showdown.

Automobile dealers, merchants, and the public depend on buses for a necessary special-delivery package service, which is as important as the passenger service.

This calls for a united fight by Bradley, Lewisville and Hope. Help your town and area by appearing at Little Rock Friday.

Business Trend Down in June

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's leading business indicators, which tend to foreshadow future movements in the economy, declined in June after seven consecutive monthly advances.

The drop in the index of leading indicators pointed to a slackening of the economic expansion although a Commerce Department official played down the one-month decline.

The department said the leading business indicator index fell by five-tenths of one percent in June, with six of the eight indicators in the series showing unfavorable changes.

In the past, the Nixon administration has said that increases in the leading business indicators proved that the economic expansion is strong and continuing.

But a Commerce Department economist, Asst. Secy, Harold C. Passer, said: "The interpretation of these movements must be based on the pattern over several months rather than the change in a single month."

Passer added, "Thus, the dip in June does not alter the fact that a strong upturn has been underway in the leading indicators since last October."

The only indicators improving in June over May was the average workweek and the ratio of prices to labor costs.

Declining were indicators for building permits, new orders for durable goods, industrial materials prices, contracts and orders for plant and equipment, stock prices and initial claims for unemployment insurance.

Ecological Park Is Planned

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Highway Commission revealed Tuesday a proposed development that would turn a 3½-mile area along Interstate 40 near Atkins into an ecological park.

The preliminary proposal has been drafted for submission to Congress in hopes that money for the project will be approved under appropriations for interstate highway development in 1972.

Apollo 15 Entering Gravity Field of Moon; Landing Near Moon Canyon Major Target of Apollo

Apollo Timetable

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 15 timetable—all times Eastern Daylight: WEDNESDAY

7:34 p.m.—Astronauts David R. Scott and James B. Irwin enter the lunar module Falcon for a second inspection of equipment. Astronaut Alfred M. Worden remains in the command ship Endeavour.

9:24 p.m.—Scott and Irwin return to the Endeavour.

11:34 p.m.—Start of an eight-hour rest period.

THURSDAY

12:26 a.m.—Lunar gravity becomes greater than the pull from earth gravity and Apollo 15's speed toward the moon begins to increase gradually.

7:34 a.m.—Sleep period ends.

11:04 a.m.—Possible firing of rocket to correct the course to the moon.

11:35 a.m.—Jettison of door to outside scientific instrument compartment in preparation for lunar orbit experiments.

4:05 p.m.—Rocket engine firing of about 6½ minutes to put the spacecraft in orbit 65 to 195 miles above the moon's surface.

It's like earth geologists having to be content with standing on the rim of the Grand Canyon of Arizona looking down, unable to climb about the canyon and sample its rocks. Hadley Rille could be as old as the solar system, 4.6 billion years old.

"Examination of the rille floor and sampling of the rocks located there would be extremely valuable. Evidence of the origin of the rille would almost certainly be found," Dr. Gene Simmons, chief scientist at the Manned Spacecraft Center, wrote recently.

"But perhaps more importantly, rocks from a depth of about 1,200 feet would be collected."

Such rocks revealing the vertical change, or stratigraphy, of the moon could reveal its history more than anything else.

"The scientific need to examine rocks from the bottom of the rille is so great that many people have tried to solve the problem of how to get them," Simmons said. "One prominent scientist suggested that the astronauts use a crossbow with a string attached to an arrow for retrieval."

That idea and others were abandoned.

But Scott and Irwin will have a camera with a telephoto lens to photograph the opposite wall of the rille. And they've been carefully schooled in what to look for in the wall.

Two were solved quickly. Ground experts were troubled.

Boyle Ponders Over Women and Their Usual 'War of Words'

By HALL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a poor man's philosopher wonders about:

Whether things will get worse before they get better.

When will the millennium come?

Why spiders spin their webs in the most inaccessible corner of a room.

How prices can go on rising when millions of people are being thrown out of work.

Why so many women want to make a war of words before they make love.

Why there are so many objections to a generation gap when everybody seems to get some benefit from it.

What makes every man want to have at least one love affair with a red-haired girl some time in his life?

How three men living in a vast desert will always manage to find something to differ about—so that two will gang up on the other one. It is the same way with children. No three of them can play harmoniously together.

Whether it is better to be lonely by yourself or bored in company.

All all heads of foundations and philanthropies unctuous, or do they just seem that way?

Why is it that man has a better brain than insects but poorer eyes?

How will William Faulkner, Ernest Hemingway and John O'Hara be rated as short story writers and novelists 20 years from now?

Can an airplane be built that will fly at twice the speed of sound without making twice as much sound as the human ear prefers to hear?

What good is politics on an empty stomach?

Why is it that, looking around you at civilization today, you feel that you've arrived in the middle of a wild cocktail party which reminds you of one you attended before?

What price progeny?

Will the dime hamburger ever make a comeback in our time?

If the population explosion continues, will it become necessary to breed cows with six milk faucets instead of four?

How about motor cars? Would it be better to limit their number or simply pave America?

If I promise not to destroy your ecology, will you promise not to wreck mine?

Who steals the people's money?

Who killed the American dream?

Yes, there is always plenty of wonder about in this wide and wonderful world.

Only Minor Problems on Spaceship

By HOWARD BENEDICT

AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 15 explorers hurtled "right by the book" on course to the moon today, both- ered only by such pesky space- ship gremlins as a broken piece of glass and a brief voltage drop.

Flight director Glynn Lunney said the problems all were minor and posed no threat to the astronauts or the planned landing on the moon Friday.

David R. Scott, James B. Irwin and Alfred M. Worden retired an hour late Tuesday night after spending extra time helping the ground troubleshoot a rash of nagging electrical and communications difficulties. So Mission Control let them sleep an hour later today.

No major activity was scheduled and officials want the astronauts well rested for six busy days ahead in the vicinity of the moon.

Lunney was asked if the total of five problems reported so far on the mission was unusual, especially in electrical systems.

"I don't think you can make too much of the electrical problems," he replied. "We always seem to have these nagging sorts of problems. When you consider the complexity of the hardware, I think we're doing quite well."

Lunney also commented on the quietness of the crew, who rarely say anything unless spoken to by Mission Control.

"The Apollo crews generally have been very quiet on the way out to the moon," he said. "They go over their checklists and discuss procedures with each other. They train mentally for the lunar activities. I expect a lot more from them when they reach the moon."

A series of four minor problems cropped up Tuesday after the astronauts had overcome a potentially damaging electrical problem in the main spaceship engine system.

None posed a threat to the astronauts or the planned landing on the moon Friday, officials said.

David R. Scott, James B. Irwin and Alfred M. Worden had just overcome a potentially damaging electrical problem on their main spaceship engine Tuesday when four other nagging items cropped up.

Two were solved quickly. Ground experts were troubled.

Vietnamese Add to Force in Cambodia

By HOLGER JENSEN

Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Another 3,200 South Vietnamese troops joined massive sweep operations in eastern Cambodia today under an umbrella of U.S. helicopter gunships, jet fighter-bombers and B52 stratofortresses.

The new drive was the third by Vietnamese troops in Cambodia in a week and the fifth this month. All are designed to push North Vietnamese forces back from the border to keep them from disrupting the South Vietnamese elections in late August and early October.

Associated Press correspondent George Esper reported from the newest Cambodian front that the South Vietnamese and their spearhead of 80 armored vehicles began moving north from Highway 1 between Svay Rieng and Prey Veng, about 25 miles inside Cambodia.

They encountered no enemy resistance initially, Esper said. But sharp fighting was reported on Tuesday about 25 miles to the northwest. South Vietnamese headquarters said ground forces and air strikes killed 35 North Vietnamese, while six Saigon troops were killed and 26 were wounded.

South Vietnamese helicopters lifted 1,600 troops to the area between Svay Rieng and Prey Veng for the new operation. The other 1,600 were already in Cambodia.

The U.S. Command confirmed that B52 strikes were flown in support of the sweep, in addition to helicopter gunship fighter-bomber operations.

The South Vietnamese began pre-election sweeps in Cambodia July 8 with a week-long, 3,000-man push in the Parrot's Beak area east of Svay Rieng.

A second sweep by 2,000 Rangers was launched July 19 across the border from South Vietnam's Chau Doc Province, in the Mekong Delta. It is still in progress.

A third sweep was made by 10,000 infantrymen from July 21 to July 26 north of Highway 7 and adjacent to the area north-east of Saigon known as War Zone C.

Turner, who is in line for the position in 1973, said, however, that he wanted the job and had enough pledges to get it.

Asks For Atty. Gen's Opinion

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Garry Brewer, prison aide to Gov. Dale Bumpers, said Tuesday that an attorney general's opinion had been requested on whether James Dean Walker could be removed from the state prison and transported to Idaho to stand trial for kidnapping.

Pros. Atty. James E. Risch of Boise, Idaho, has asked Bumpers to transfer Walker to Idaho to stand trial.

Walker, formerly of Reno, Nev., is serving a life sentence on conviction of murder in the 1963 shooting death of Jerrell Vaughn, who was a North Little Rock policeman.

Risch wrote in a letter dated July 22 that Walker would be taken to Idaho solely to stand trial on the kidnap charge and would be returned to Arkansas after the trial. He said the charge was filed Oct. 3, 1969, alleging the crime occurred Dec. 23, 1962.

Smith Wants to Keep Job

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Rep. Ray S. Smith Jr. of Hot Springs said Tuesday he would like to serve another term as speaker of the Arkansas House if Rep. G. W. "Buddy" Turner of Pine Bluff did not want the job.

Turner, who is in line for the position in 1973, said, however, that he wanted the job and had enough pledges to get it.

Nation-Wide Group Boasts That It Built Up Welfare Rolls

By AUSTIN SCOTT

Associated Press Writer

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Proudly claiming to have helped dramatically expand the nation's relief rolls, the National Welfare Rights Organization opens today a convention that could expand its own activities among the nation's poor.

Dr. George Wiley, former Congress of Racial Equality staff member who has been NWRO's executive director for five years, said in an interview two important changes in direction are being considered.

"One is getting much more active in electoral politics, trying to elect delegates to the Democratic national convention, going into voter registration, that sort of thing," he said.

"The other is ... trying to relate to new constituencies, domestic workers, farm workers, hospital workers, tenants' organizations, health-rights groups, women's organizations, old people and youth."

Washington (AP) — Financially ailing Lockheed Aircraft Corp. won preliminary vote of confidence in the Senate today but a bill to rescue it and other big firms in financial difficulty remained threatened by extended debate.

The Senate rejected 60 to 35 an amendment by Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., which would have subjected Lockheed's request for $250 million in federal loan guarantees to another two months of probably fatal delay.

The vote was in indication that the administration-backed corporate rescue bill, designed specifically to save Lockheed, has enough support to clear the Senate if debate can be curbed.

Administration forces prepared another attempt later in the day to win the two-thirds vote needed to invoke debate-limiting closure.

Administration supporters say enactment of a bill without preferential treatment for Lockheed would delay aid until the cash-starved company is beyond help.

Sensing defeat with five of their number out of town, Lockheed backers blocked a vote Tuesday on the amendment by Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., to put the big company on equal footing with other firms in seeking government loan guarantees.

They also are expected to work out the specific attack NWRO will make on President Nixon's family assistance plan, which has passed the House and is being fought in the Senate Finance Committee.

NWRO has been insisting on the $6,500 Bureau of Labor Standards figure for a low but adequate family-of-four income, well above the plan's current $2,400 figure, which falls below the Agriculture Department's $3,970 poverty line.

In literature distributed to a variety of groups, NWRO has branded the family assistance plan a "giant step backward ... worse than the present inadequate welfare system."

Not only is its maximum payment lower than what is now paid in 45 states, the organization said, but present cost-of-living increases would be denied; the work requirements allows paying below the federal minimum wage, and working mothers would have no control over the quality of day care for their children.

Scheduled to speak or conduct workshops at the convention are Rep. Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif., Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., black poet-organizer LeRoi Jones, Coretta Scott King, writer-feminist Gloria Steinem and Chicago organizer Corky Gonzalez.

Showers Through Thursday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A stationary front across the state today was expected to trigger showers and thunderstorms through Thursday. Cooler temperatures also are associated with the frontal system, with high temperatures not expected to break the 90-degree mark.

Early morning lows are forecast in the 60s to low 70s.

Considerable cloudiness over the state Tuesday held afternoon highs readings in the 80s. Texarkana was the coolest with 78 and Fort Smith the warmest with 88.

Shower and thunderstorm activity was confined mostly to extreme southern counties of Arkansas Tuesday afternoon. During the early afternoon, the Arkansas State Police reported a funnel cloud in the Gould and Dumas area. No damage was reported.

Louisiana Rejects Bus Elimination

Protests by Highway 29 communities to Continental Trailways' attempt to eliminate bus service between Hope and Shreveport will be aired at an Arkansas Transportation Commission hearing in the Justice Building, Little Rock, at 11 a.m. Friday, July 30.

Continental Trailways makes two roundtrips daily between Hope and Shreveport. The State of Louisiana has already forbidden the bus company from halting service.

The result was that Continental Trailways continued to run buses to the state line, but suspended service between the line and Hope.

A protest group was formed at Bradley, Ark., southernmost LaFayette county, and through service to Hope was resumed temporarily. The Bradley spokesman is Frank Cochran, Sr., manager of Bradley Warehouse Co.

Mr. Cochran met with B. N. Holt, secretary-manager of the Hope-Hempstead County Chamber of Commerce, at Lewisville Tuesday night to lay plans for a regional turnout for the hearing at Little

Jury Nearly Complete in Medina Trial

By KATHRYN JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP) — A sixth juror, another Vietnam veteran, was tentatively steered today for the My Lai massacre trial of Capt. Ernest Medina.

Major Dudley Budrich of Chicago was tentatively accepted without challenge from either defense lawyers or the Army prosecutor.

The minimum five jurors required in the court-martial was reached Tuesday. However, any two of the present jurors could be eliminated without cause at any time.

Budrich, a training officer at 3rd Army headquarters here was an adviser to a South Vietnamese regiment and said he had engaged in combat.

Asked by Col. Kenneth Howard, the military judge, what he recalled reading about the My Lai incident, Budrich replied, "I never believed I got a full picture of what happened. I knew civilians were killed there. I never knew how they were killed. You never really know in combat sometimes."

F. Lee Bailey, chief defense attorney, predicted the jury will be completed within the original panel of 10 officers.

Five or more must be agreeable to both the defense and the Army before the court-martial may proceed.

Once a jury is sworn, the trial is expected to be recessed for two weeks while nearly 50 prospective witnesses are subpoenaed and arrangements made to transport them here.

Col. Kenneth Howard, the military judge, said Tuesday he was gratified by the progress of jury selection in the first two days of trial.

Medina is accused of murdering 102 Vietnamese civilians at My Lai when his C Company of the Americal Division's 11th Brigade swept through the hamlet March 16, 1968.

His troops allegedly shot at least 100 civilians.

The new troubles cropped up when Scott and Irwin transferred Tuesday night into the lunar module, called Falcon, to make certain all its systems were in order for their descent to the base of the moon's highest mountains at 6:15 p.m. EDT Friday. Apollo 15 is to fire into lunar orbit at 4:05 p.m. Thursday.

Simultaneously, communications from a tracking station at Goldstone, Calif., was lost for 19 seconds and voltage dropped in an electrical system in the command ship Endeavour. Both problems were brief.

The first was traced quickly to a power amplifier at Goldstone. A series of tests showed the two incidents were not connected, and further tests traced the power drop to a tripped circuit breaker.

Mission Control said the affected circuit controlled a few display panel lights and that engineers were developing alternate ways of lighting them.

Then Scott and Irwin had difficulty for several minutes making radio contact from the lunar module to Mission Control, but finally succeeded after pointing antennas properly. This has happened on most Apollo flights.

While checking the cabin, they discovered a one-by-four-inch piece of glass covering a meter had shattered.

The space between the two glass panes normally contains helium under pressure to help keep out contaminants. Without the pressure, the meter must function in a lesser oxygen pressure or in a vacuum on the moon. It is used to determine distance and closing rate during both descent to the moon and the later rendezvous with the command ship.

Tests were under way today to determine how effectively the meter would operate in a different environment. Even if it didn't however, the astronauts have another device to do the job.

Union Refuses Arbitration in Rail Strike

By MIKE DOAN

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The union striking four railroads has rejected a Labor Department request that a neutral board impose a binding settlement in the dispute. The union said the offer showed "complete bias of the government toward the management position."

Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson asked Tuesday for responses by today on his arbitration suggestion, but the United Transportation Union reply came within two hours.

"Collective bargaining can never work as long as government remains a slave to management and interferences when collective bargaining is beginning to succeed," said UTU President Charles Luna in rejecting the offer.

The railroad industry has not yet replied.

The Labor Department recessed joint union-industry talks Monday, saying no solution was in sight.

With the union threatening to strike six more railroads Friday, Hodgson recommended a panel of three neutral experts be selected by both sides or by President Nixon to reach a binding settlement.

Despite the increasing problems White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said, "We have no plans at this time to send legislation to the Hill" to seek an emergency settlement.

The UTU struck the Southern and Union Pacific railroads 12 days ago and extended the walkout last Saturday to the Norfolk & Western and the Southern Pacific. Some 120,000 employees have been off work and 20 per cent of rail shipments tied up.

A 5 p.m. strike deadline today against the Long Island Railroad was postponed by the UTU pending developments in Washington.

The six railroads' with 45,000 employees, targeted for strikes Friday are the Duluth, Mesabi & Iron Range, the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern, the Bessemer & Lake Erie, the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, the Alton & Southern Terminal in St. Louis and the Houston Belt & Terminal in Houston. On Aug. 6 the union has slated walkouts against the Baltimore & Ohio; Chesapeake & Ohio; Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific, and the Missouri, Kansas & Texas.

The main issue is a change in work rules recommended by a presidential emergency board last fall and accepted by three other rail unions. Management says the rules are needed to help offset a 42-per-cent wage increase over 42 months.

UTU president Luna said in his telegram to Hodgson: "To revert to arbitration at this point when we have established the right to the exercise of economic strength through court action would be foolish."

Lost Ring Is Found

HALES CORNERS, Wis. (AP) — A ring which was lost 16 years ago was found in its owner's backyard—which had been bulldozed, filled, graded and sodded since the band was first missed.

The ring was lost by George Polakowski when he was building his home in 1955, and found recently by his 19-year-old nephew, Dale Demski, as he helped put in a new patio.

"I just couldn't find it after working on the house all day," Polakowski said. "I told my wife that some guy in 100 years would tear the house down and find it."

No 2-China UN Policy for Chou

By FOREST EDWARDS

Associated Press Writer

HONG KONG (AP) — Premier Chou En-lai told an American student delegation that Peking will not accept any "two China" policy or an "independent" Formosa policy as a compromise to improve relations with the United States, the students reported today.

Chou described as "absurd" any theory or policy that the status of Formosa—or Taiwan, as Peking calls the island—is an undetermined matter that can be settled at some future date. He called for withdrawal of all U.S. forces and military installations from the Nationalist Chinese island and the Formosa strait and said the 1954 defense treaty between the United States and President Chiang Kai-shek is "illegal and null and void."

Chou also made clear that Peking would not join the United Nations so long as Chiang's Nationalist regime is represented there.

"This is our stand, and we stick to our stand. Our stand has not changed and it shall not change," Chou told the 15 U.S. graduate students from the Committee of Concerned Asian Scholars during a 3½-hour interview in Peking on

Youth Bolts From Courtroom

TITUSVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Joe A. Cowart Jr., a court of record judge, had just sentenced 18-year-old Patrick Bertrand to two years on a breaking and entering charge Tuesday when the defendant yelled an obscenity at him and bolted from the courtroom with bailiff Harold Yeager in pursuit.

Cowart, black robes trailing behind him, leaped off the bench and ran through his private courtroom entrance just in time to catch Bertrand as he ran down a hall.

Yeager slapped a pair of handcuffs on the prisoner and he was led away to begin his sentence.

July 19.

Part of the interview was reported the day after by the Peking correspondent of the Toronto Globe and Mail, and the gist of his report was distributed by The Associated Press. But on their return to Hong Kong the four students made public a 20-page transcript of the interview.

Chou said there are four problems standing in the way of normal relations between the United States and Communist China: the fate of Taiwan, the Vietnam war, the state of war that still exists in Korea and the presence of American troops there, and American aid to what the premier described as a resurgence of Japanese militarism.

Trade Surplus of U.S. Is Vanishing

By MICHAEL J. REILLY

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans says 1971 may be the first year of this century the United States has been unable to maintain a surplus in its foreign trade.

"Our economic future depends on maintaining our technology," Stans told the House Science Committee Tuesday. He said the U.S. trade surplus of exports over imports, which has been declining in recent years, may hit zero for the first time since 1893.

The surplus was $2.7 billion last year, down from $7.7 billion in 1964, Stans said.

The last official comment on the balance of trade was July 8 when the Commerce Department forecast a $500,000 surplus for 1971. It predicted exports would rise 7 to 8 per cent, while imports increased 13 to 14 per cent.

Stans urged Congress to consider stimulating technological advancement to break the cycle.

"It may well be time," he said, to modify antitrust regulations so that industries can pool resources and make advances he said are needed.

Although the Nixon adminis-

Wednesday, July 28, 1971

tration hasn't decided "which way we want to go," Stans said, four options exist:

—Direct federal grants, cost-sharing and loan guarantees for technological development; and such indirect aid as tax breaks, investment credits and depreciation allowances.

—Establishing a "federal focus," such as a single agency, to forecast future developments and set up programs encouraging inventions and innovations.

—Freeing individual firms from costs of technology by, perhaps, spreading development risks among several companies.

—Encouraging voluntary standards for innovative equipment, particularly for export.

"I do not presume today to suggest which of these options are most effective or even most desirable," Stans told the committee. "A thorough analysis by both executive and legislative branches is necessary."

The trade deficit with Japan is a major reason for the expected big drop in the balance of trade. Stans said the United States is importing over $2.5 billion more this year from Japan than it is exporting. The deficit was only $100 million in 1965.

He described the trade balance with Japan as "already serious and growing worse."

Employee education is a matter of courses at AP&L.

By the time the first generating unit of Arkansas Nuclear One is in operation in 1973, the AP&L supervisory plant staff will have spent thousands of hours in the classroom. These courses to upgrade their already extensive knowledge and experience are preparing them for the operation of a nuclear-fueled electric generating station.

Courses like reactor engineering. Nuclear instrumentation. Pressurized water technology. Chemistry, shielding, and health physics.

One three-month course will teach 13 key men how to start a nuclear reactor, how to bring it to operating temperatures, and how to safely regulate its operation. These Arkansas Power and Light professionals will be part of the actual crews that will manage Arkansas Nuclear One, the plant that will utilize one of the most pollution-free methods of generating electricity known to man.

We think our almost 2,800 employees at AP&L are pretty special people. And they've got a special kind of job in helping build Arkansas.

Philadelphia 8-3 Over Houston

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Bobby Pfeil, catching due to Philadelphia injuries, caught Houston by surprise before Wade Blasingame caught up with the Phillies' hot bats.

The lanky utility man can play just about every position on the field but generally plays none of them. He was behind the plate Tuesday night, however, as the Phils' No. 1 and No. 2 receivers, Tim McCarver and Mike Ryan, were sidelined. But Pfeil's glove work went unnoticed. It was his previously all-but-silent bat that made all the noise as he drilled a pair of home runs, his first two in the major leagues, to lead the Phils to an 8-3 victory in the first game of a twilight doubleheader.

But Blasingame put an end to hopes of a sweep as he fashioned a four-hitter in the Astros' 5-1 second-game triumph.

In other National League action, the New York Mets surprised St. Louis 3-2, Montreal rocked the Chicago Cubs 6-1, Los Angeles stunned Pittsburgh 8-5, Cincinnati bombed San Diego 11-3 and Atlanta held off San Francisco 4-3.

In American League play, Baltimore swept a pair from Oakland 1-0 and 6-4, Boston split two with Milwaukee, winning 4-3 before the Brewers took the second game 5-1, Cleveland edged California 4-3, Minnesota whipped Washington 6-4, Detroit slipped by Kansas City 5-4 in 11 innings and the Chicago White Sox belted the New York Yankees 9-6 in 12.

"Go home and prepare yourself" is what Phillies Manager Frank Lucchesi told Pfeil Monday night, advising the versatile 27-year-old he would be catching both games of the twinbill.

"Ryan was an inspiration to me," Pfeil said of the catcher who suffered a pre-game muscle spasm in his back but ignored the pain and caught Monday night's 15-inning game. Willie Montanez and Deron Johnson also ripped first-game homers off loser Larry Dierker, one more than the Houston right-hander had allowed in his previous 145 2-3 innings.

But Johnson's second of the night and 24th of the season was the only damage against Blasingame while the Astros found the long ball, a two-run shot by Cesar Cedeno and a solo job by Doug Rader.

The Houston left-hander said he previously had been throwing slow breaking pitches, which affected his fast ball. That, in turn, caused him to start throwing the fast stuff the same way as the slow pitches—which he blamed for his earlier troubles.

Blasingame was jubilant about his first complete game in 20 starts but was generous with his praise. "I want to give a hell of a lot of credit to our defense. It was super."

Tuckey Dead After Fight

MONTREAL (AP) — Danny Tuckey, a 25-year-old Jamaican-born boxer had just been stopped by Reynald Cantin, the Canadian junior welterweight champion, in the final round of their scheduled ten-round non-title at Paul Saure Arena when he pleaded with the referee: "Come on ref," he said, "I'm all right, don't stop the fight."

Seconds later, he slumped to the canvas, lapsed into a coma and was taken from the ring on a stretcher to a Montreal hospital Monday.

Early Tuesday, Tucker underwent surgery to remove blood clots from both sides of the brain. Then, hospital officials reported he had suffered a cardiac arrest. A short time later, he was dead.

A hospital spokesman said an autopsy would be performed to determine the cause of death. Cantin, who had pounded Tucker throughout the fight and had him helpless when the referee stopped it, said he was surprised his opponent had held on so long.

"It's really a shame," said Cantin. "He should have given up sooner."

start since June 9, had held them to three hits and was nursing a 2-1 lead going into the ninth inning.

But one-out singles by Tommy Agee and Cleon Jones knocked out the St. Louis hurler and Ed Kranepool greeted reliever Frank Linzy with a game-tying single. And with two away Duffy Dyer blooped a hit over first base to win it.

Tom Seaver, who started for New York, took over the league's knockout lead, fanning seven to boost his total to 173. But he was lifted after eight innings and Danny Frisella, 5-2, got the victory.

Rookie Ernie McAnally fired a five-hitter for the Expos and Ron Fairly gave him all the runs he needed to turn back Chicago with a two-run homer off Ken Holtzman. McAnally for a 4-1 lead, then withstood Willie McCovey's two-run belt in the ninth inning.

also capped a two-run second inning for Montreal with a sacrifice fly.

The Dodgers snapped Dock Ellis' victory streak at 13 games, chasing the Pirates' right-hander with a six-run seventh inning highlighted by rookie Bill Buckner's grand slam home run.

Lee May had a pair of two-run homers, Johnny Bench had one and Hal McRae had five hits including three doubles and a homer in the Reds' 17-hit assault against the Padres.

Hottest Pitcher Is Dobson

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Quickie Quiz. Who's the winningest pitcher for Baltimore's orbiting Orioles?

Would you guess Mike Cuellar, who won 47 games in the last two pennant-winning seasons for the Birds? You'd be wrong.

Would you guess Jim Palmer, who accounted for 36 victories in the last two years? Wrong again.

The answer is Pat Dobson, who's not only the leading winner on the Orioles' staff but one of the hottest pitchers in all of baseball right now.

Dobson fired a four-hitter Tuesday night, striking out 13 Oakland batters and winning his 11th consecutive decision with a 1-0 masterpiece over the A's in the first game of a doubleheader. It was Dobson's 14th victory of the season, one more than Cuellar and McNally and three more than Palmer.

The Birds completed the sweep, winning the nightcap 6-4 on Brooks Robinson's ninth-inning homer.

Elsewhere in the American League Tuesday night, Minnesota trimmed Washington 4-2, Cleveland nipped California 4-3, Boston split a doubleheader with Milwaukee, winning 4-3 before losing 5-1, Detroit topped Kansas City 5-4 in 11 innings and Chicago defeated New York 9-6 in 12 innings.

In the National League, New York edged St. Louis 3-2, Montreal dropped Chicago 6-1, Philadelphia split a doubleheader with Houston, winning 8-3 and then losing 5-1, Cincinnati whipped San Diego 11-3, Los Angeles topped Pittsburgh 8-5 and Atlanta beat San Francisco 4-3.

Dobson, now 14-4, hasn't lost since June 12 and has pitched eight straight complete games. He was in complete control against Oakland as Baltimore swept the showdown of AL division leaders.

The right-hander, picked up from San Diego during the winter, didn't allow a hit until the fifth inning when Dick Green singled with two out. The hit followed four straight strikeouts.

Clay Dalrymple's fifth inning double drove in the only run Dobson needed in the opener. The Birds needed more than that in the nightcap though.

Baltimore jumped into a 4-0 lead in the second game but the A's rallied to tie the score with four in the seventh. It was still 4-4 with two out in the bottom of the ninth when Boog Powell doubled and Robinson tagged his homer.

Bill Melton's throwing error allowed the Yankees to break a 5-5 tie in the top of the 12th inning, but the slugging Chicago third baseman made up for it with a booming three-run homer in the bottom half of the inning after the Sox had rallied to tie the score again on a walk and Pat Kelly's double.

Bobby Murcer homered for the Yankees, who had a five-game winning streak snapped and blew early 4-0 and 5-1 leads.

Detroit pushed across the winning run in the 11th inning against Kansas City when Aurelio Rodriguez drew a bases-loaded walk. Jim Price opened the decisive inning with a single. Then a sacrifice, a wild pitch and two walks loaded the bases, setting the stage for Rodriguez.

Mickey Lolich went all the way for his 16th victory, surviving a game-tying homer by Kansas City's Dennis Paepke in the ninth.

Tony Oliva snapped a ninth-inning tie for Minnesota, ripping his 19th homer of the year to beat Washington.

Harmon Killebrew doubled in front of Oliva's shot to win it for the Twins, who had rallied for a run in the eighth to tie it on George Thomas' pinch single.

Cleveland, held hitless by California's Clyde Wright for five innings, bunched three runs on a pair of hits in the sixth inning and whipped the Angels.

Ken Suarez' leadoff single in the sixth was the first hit off Wright. Then a passed ball, a sacrifice, a walk, an error, Vada Pinson's single and Graig Nettles' sacrifice fly produced

Ali to Fight Quarry

HOUSTON (AP) — Muhammad Ali says his next fight will be against Jerry Quarry in the Astrodome in September.

The former heavyweight champion also would like a return match with champion Joe Frazier in the domed structure next March.

Ali told newsmen Tuesday he understood his next fight would be against Quarry in the dome although "nothing has been signed."

Ali, fresh from his 12th-round Monday night victory over Jimmy Ellis, was in high spirits. He praised Ellis and the Astrodome and threw verbal jabs at Frazier.

He said the Astrodome "would be ideal" for the Frazier match. "I think a fight so great should be held where as many people as possible could see it," Ali said. "We could draw 100,000 people."

The Astrodome conceivably could be jammed with 66,000 persons for such a fight.

Frazier has been reported as saying he wants $5 million for such a match.

"He talks like an amateur," Ali shouted. "Why does he want $5 million? Why does he think he's such a draw?"

"He won't wear me down. He won't catch me. He'll be in such pitiful condition he'll have to retire. Ellis is a much better boxer than Frazier."

Ellis, former World Boxing Association heavyweight champion, sat beside Ali at the news conference.

Ali had high praise for Ellis, a former sparring partner. "Anybody who fought like he fought will be around for a long time to come," Ali said. "He's not washed up."

Also at the news conference was Angelo Dundee, who trained Ali for all his pro fights before the Ellis match but who was in Ellis' corner as trainer and manager Monday night. Ali said Dundee would rejoin him for future fights.

It was not known immediately what Ali's purse would be for Monday's fight. He was given a guarantee of $450,000 against 45 per cent of all income. Ellis was to receive 20 per cent of all income.

three runs. Ken Mullen and Jim Spencer homered for the Angels.

Skip Lockwood pitched six hitless innings but Boston caught up with him, scoring four runs in the eighth inning to win the opener of a doubleheader against Milwaukee. Rico Petrocelli's two-run single was the key hit as the Red Sox wiped out a 3-0 Brewer lead, and beat reliever Ken Sanders.

Milwaukee gained the split when rookie Bill Parsons spaced five hits in the nightcap and drove in the first run of the game.

Dickie Post Is Traded to Broncos

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer
Dickie Post, operator of Dickie Post Ltd., mod clothing stores in San Diego, will be setting up shop—football variety, that is—in Denver during the 1971 National Football League season.

The relatively small but hard driving back was traded Tuesday by the Chargers to the Broncos for a 1972 No. 2 draft choice.

With the 5-foot-9, 190-pound Post, who led the old American Football League in rushing in 1969, and 5-10, 195-pound Floyd Little, who led the American Football Conference in rushing last year, the Broncos will have one of the smallest but best ball carrying combinations in the NFL.

Post had the worst of his four seasons with the Chargers in 1970. He missed the first five games because of knee surgery and gained only 225 yards in 74 carries and scored one touchdown.

It was quite a comedown from 1969, when he carried for 873 yards in 182 attempts and scored six times.

This season, Post reported late to the Chargers' training camp in Irvine, Calif., and still had not signed his contract when he was sent to Denver.

Despite Post's sub-par 1970 showing, Denver Coach Lou Saban was happy about his new acquisition. "Dickie is an established running back who can also catch the football," said Saban. "We are delighted to have a man with his versatility with us."

While the Chargers apparently disposed of Post because of his contract difficulties, the Atlanta Falcons signed star middle linebacker Tommy Nobis to an estimated five-year contract at about $50,000 a year.

Meanwhile, the Minnesota Vikings suffered their second major loss in two days as veteran cornerback Bobby Bryant broke his right leg when wide receiver Gene Washington fell on him after a collision during practice.

Bryant, who missed much of the 1970 season with a shoulder injury, broke his leg three inches above the ankle. Coach Bud Grant said he expected Bryant to be sidelined for two months. "It appeared to be a fairly clean break," said Grant, "and fortunately it was a small bone and not a weight bearing bone."

Bryant's injury followed by one day an announcement that guard Jim Vellone would be out for the season with an undetermined illness.

The Chicago Bears continued to shuffle their roster, obtaining running back Henry Dyer from the Cincinnati Bengals on waivers and trading quarterback Bob Cuthbert to the Oakland Raiders for an undisclosed draft choice.

The Houston Oilers also remained busy in the trade market, acquiring offensive tackle Worthy McClure from the Pittsburgh Steelers for an undisclosed 1972 draft pick. In addition, Houston cut two veterans—Johnny Peacock, starting safety the past two seasons, and running back Tom Smiley.

The Washington Redskins and Los Angeles Rams cancelled a trade which would have brought center-guard George Burman to the Redskins. Burman retired to take a job with the Labor Department. The Redskins had given the Rams an undisclosed future draft choice for Burman.

Offensive tackle Joe Taffoni left Cleveland's camp at Hiram, Ohio, and the Browns said he would be fined $100 for each practice session he misses. Taffoni, a regular last season, had been demoted to the second team and it was believed to be the reason he left.

The Dallas Cowboys traded rookie wide receiver Ron Jessie to Detroit for an undisclosed 1972 draft selection. Coach Johnny Mazur of the New England Patriots said that Dewey Graham, son of former Cleveland star quarterback Otto Graham, would report to camp at Amherst, Mass. today for a trial as a punter. Young Graham will compete with Tom Janik and Dave Hart for the punting job.

And wide receiver J. D. Hill of Arizona State and linebacker Ronnie Hornsby of Southeastern Louisiana were named co-captains of the College All-Star team for Friday night's game against the world champion Baltimore Colts at Soldier Field in Chicago.

Palmer, Nicklaus on Top

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
LIGONIER, Pa. (AP) — Super Mex Lee Trevino is back in action, with a new partner, but has to take second billing to the awesome combination of Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus in the $200,000 PGA National Team championship that starts Thursday.

Trevino, his nerves frayed by his game suffering from almost four months of steady competition, missed the cut for the final two rounds in the Westchester Golf Classic last week and took the opportunity to get his first rest in 16 weeks.

But even with the rest and Lee's overwhelming credentials—leading money winner this season with more than $197,000, the U.S., Canadian and British Open crowns, plus two other titles—the Trevino-Johnson duo has to take second place in the pretourney picks to Palmer and Nicklaus.

For one thing, they're the defending champions in his 72-hole event in which scoring on each hole is based on the better ball of each two-man team.

It's the same site as last year, the beautifully conditioned Laurel Valley Golf Club layout—Palmer's home course—a site that may become a permanent home for this event.

And Palmer and Nicklaus—dominant figures in the game until Trevino elbowed his way into that select company this year—have an unmatched history of success in team competition. They've won two of the national championship two of the last three times it's been played and teamed to take one World Cup competition for the United States four times.

All Stars Depending on Offense

CHICAGO (AP) — The College All-Stars hope to unleash an explosive, powerful offense against the Baltimore Colts in Soldier Field Friday when the two teams collide in the 38th annual midsummer classic.

Heisman trophy winner Jim Plunkett of Stanford and Santa Clara's Dan Pastorini will guide the All-Stars at the important quarterback position. Coach Blanton Collier also has Chuck Hixon of Southern Methodist but Hixon reported late and probably will be held as the backup man.

Whomever is at quarterback, he'll not lack for superb receivers.

There's J.D. Hill of Arizona State, Elmo Wright of Houston, speedy Ralph Thompson of West Texas State, Frank Lewis of Grambling, Ernie Jennings of Air Force and Stan Brown of Purdue.

The All-Stars have a glittering list of running backs but if they can't establish a passing game against the defense-minded Colts, their running will be for naught.

Pass receiving will be the key of the game because Plunkett and Pastorini are exceptional and the All-Stars have an excellent offensive line in the likes of Steve Lawson of Kansas, Dan Dierdorf of Michigan, Vern Holland of Tennessee State, Marv Montgomery of Southern Cal, and Bob Newton of Nebraska.

A tipoff to the ability of these offensive linemen came early in training when the coaching staff switched Sam Holden of Grambling from offense to defense.

If the line holds and the passers clock then the All-Stars might be able to do some running even if it means swing flare and swing passes to the backs. Once again, in the running department, the All-Stars will not be lacking.

Sports Coalition Discussed

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The heads of the four major professional sports' players associations have discussed forming a coalition which could establish a mutual strike fund and mount a major battle against reserve clauses, according to a daily newspaper here.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, told of the discussions in a report in the Minneapolis Star Tuesday.

"I don't want to give the impression that any union is just around the corner," Miller was quoted as saying. "There are no specific proposals at this time."

However, Miller did admit such a coalition was discussed at a recent meeting in Washington, D.C., involving himself, Alan Eagleson, head of the National Hockey League player association; Ed Garvey, head of the National Football League player group, and Larry Fleishman, representing the National Basketball Association's player organization.

One of the advantages of being a bridge columnist is that you can pick out hands that prove your theories. We will plead guilty to this charge right here and now. But we want to point out that we occasionally show a hand that is not tailor made to fit our bidding system.

South's two club response is made because he will not respond two hearts with just a four-card suit. He continues with a bid in no-trump because he does not like to show two suits when his hand pattern is so well balanced.

West gets off to his best lead—a spade—but South has no trouble making three no-spade and knocks out the diamond ace to leave himself with nine top tricks.

It would be nice to point out that four hearts would be set but this time a four heart contract would breeze in. Not that South wouldn't have some worries along the way, but the chances are very good he would work it out. In fact, some lucky South might even find a way to collect 11 tricks with that 4-3 fit.

Then some South player might actually manage to go down at four hearts. Think of all the grief that would cause when North pointed out that three no-trump was as sure as death and taxes.

Roughage Needed For Healthy Diet

Dr. Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb: You had in your column that too much refined food without cellulose or roughage may be associated with constipation and an increased amount of cancer of the colon and rectum. You said nutrients are often extracted from natural food source, and sugar is a classic example. What foods contain cellulose and what low residue foods should we avoid?

Dear Reader: Sugar is an example of a refined food residue food which contains no water and is all calories. It also contains no vitamins or minerals of consequence. In the process of extracting sugar from cane or beets only the calories are extracted for food, leaving behind the fibrous cellulose and minerals. The same is true of white flour but many of the essential nutrients like the vitamin B group are added to the flour to make it "enriched." Cake flour, by the way, is not rich in vitamins.

Certain fats like pure lard have no measurable minerals or vitamins. Thus foods made from these products, such as pies, cakes, cookies, desserts and candies, contain a lot of calories for a small amount of food, or are low residue foods.

Vegetables contain a lot of fiber or cellulose and a lot of water, thus they contain few calories for their volume and have a large residue—which contributes to better bowel function (unless you have a digestive disorder that prevents you from eating them). Many lean meats also fall in this category. Lean round steak with all the visible fat removed contains a lot of water which helps digestive function and provides bulk.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Today a man over the radio, advertising Blue Cross and Blue Shield insurance said that many victims would die from strokes during the year. He gave some large figure. He gave several symptoms of stroke and stated that many could be saved from death if they had treatment in time. What are the main causes and the treatment that can be helpful?

Dear Reader—He was probably talking about strokes caused by disease of the blood vessels in the brain. This is the common type. It is right behind heart attacks as a cause of death. The disease is the same. In the case of strokes the arteries to the brain develop fatty deposits in their walls, eventually causing a clot or similar process that blocks the blood flow to part of the brain to cause brain damage or a stroke. In heart attacks it is an artery to the heart muscle that is involved.

Dog days is a name given to the hottest period of summer, approximately July 3 to August 11. The World Almanac says the name is derived from ancient times when observers in the Mediterranean countries reckoned the hottest season of the year from 20 days before to 20 days after the conjunction of Sirius, the Dog Star, and the sun.

In both instances a lot can be done to prevent such attacks. Avoid obesity, exercise properly and eliminate bad habits such as smoking cigarettes. In both cases once an attack occurs the most dangerous period is at the onset, therefore the earlier medical attention can be gotten the better.

V. A. Profile

By TOM TIEDE

WASHINGTON — (NEA)—When a Vietnam veteran applied for work at a factory here the other day, he was asked by the employer: (1) "Are you on dope?" (2) "Have you ever committed a war crime?" and (3) "Do you belong to any peace groups?"

The veteran said no to each question. But was still refused the job.

"We want," the employer said, "well, we want an older person."

The incident is a common one today. And it points out the primary problem facing many of the five million Vietnam-era veterans. Image. Their image is the poorest of any military veterans in U.S. history. As the man who was refused the fore-stated job puts it: "I knew what he (the employer) thought. He thought I had cocaine in my pocket, he thought I'd cut the ears off Vietnamese civilians, and he thought if he hired me I'd organize a picket protest my first week on the job."

Image. Not every American believes the Viet vet is a weirdo. But enough do, or at least have suspicions, that it's become one of the quiet scandals of the land.

It's a scandal because it's a lie. Today's veteran image is one of guilt by association. As Veterans Administration publicist Straton Appleman puts it: "Look at any statistics and you'll see 99 per cent of the Vietnam-era veterans are decent, normal young men. The drug problem is a good example. The highest figure I've heard quoted is that 50,000 Vietnam-era veterans are addicted. Even if this figure is correct, it means only 1 per cent of the total. One per cent! Yet a lot of people seem to think that everybody getting out of service is a dope fiend."

Appleman is one of many V.A. people upset with the disastrous image of today's young veteran. And, too, he is one of many V.A. people who are attempting to re-educate the public and correct what has become a burdensome, shameful wrong.

Some of the V.A.'s correction activity is unfortunately dull, revolving as it does around shrill cries of patriotism ("They were soldiers, by God!"). Yet some of it is right on target, presenting the Vietnam veteran as an altogether different chap from his father—but not so different as to cause the father any alarm.

Who is the Viet vet then? Certainly no monster. "He is," says V.A. psychiatrist Dr. Charles Stenger, "first, foremost and very much a member of his own generation. He is less willing to accept authority in a compliant manner, quite willing to question or challenge. He feels strongly that he has a right to know and to have a voice in those things that affect him. So, if he's a patient in a hospital and you go to give him a pill, you must be prepared for him to ask, 'Why?' What is the pill for? What good will it do him? If you don't answer him, you make him feel he doesn't count—and he will not accept this."

The veteran is also prone to believe he will not be consulted, Stenger says, for he feels authority in any form is unresponsive. Stenger says the acceptable terminology here is "turned off." It is a defensive mechanism, not uncommon to all age groups, and manifests in degrees of bitterness, distrust and suspicion.

And when he is turned off, Stenger adds, he is likely to become pessimistic and uncertain about life and goals. Consequently: "The veteran reflects less interest in long-range planning and concentrates on here-and-now gratification."

It follows that this "now" phenomena leads him to further identification with his own age group, the easiest way to find like-thinking pals. And this "pact of youth," as Stenger calls it is the reason for one final Viet-vet characteristic: impulsiveness. There is strength in numbers, youth have large numbers and so there is group safety in all forms of impulsive behavior "from marijuana to mope-pish hair."

By necessity, V.A. officials admit, this brief "profile" of the Vietnam veteran is generalized. It is also pompous. But, in the main, it is accurate and important.

It indicates, No. 1, that Vietnam veterans, especially younger Vietnam veterans, wish to be recognized as individuals. That society should not, therefore, cling to expectations of how they should look, act, feel, talk, develop, etc. That fairness dictates a military veteran should be listened to as well as talked to, consulted as well as confronted, and given the chance to educate as well as be educated.

Individualism, after all, as Dr. Stenger emphasized, is an historic American virtue. And, whereas many veterans may bend toward long hair, peace marches, even pot smoking, many others are individualistic enough to, for example, stay in the service (1,000,000 have), join veterans groups (500,000 have), get into job training (1,095,000 have), go back to school (2,486,000 have) and infinitum.

Players Refuse to Cut Hair

SPRINGDALE, Ark. (AP) — The District 1 American Legion baseball commissioner says that an incident that caused Ozark to forfeit its opening-round game in the District 1 tournament earlier this week would not have occurred if the coaches and other officials would have followed legion baseball rules.

An estimated 12 to 18 players were told to go to a barber or they could not play. The Ozark team forfeited its opening game and withdrew from the tournament because some players refused to observe a regulation that forbids players from having long hair or mustaches.

Some of the tournament players, generally two or three from each of the six teams, were forced to get haircuts from a nearby beauty shop because all barber shops were closed on Monday. Some of the teams brought scissors and electric clippers with them to the tournament, evidently anticipating enforcement of the rule.

"It's just as much the fault of the coaches as it is the players that this happened, said Chuck Roberts of Lincoln, the district commissioner. "Some of them (coaches) had hair just as long or longer than the players. They should have been enforcing this rule."

Roberts quoted a rule he said was in the 1971 National American Legion Baseball Rules Book that stated players shall not have hair "so long as to interfere with the proper wearing of a baseball cap or the protective batting helmet." The rule also said that hair, including sideburns, could be no longer than the bottom of the ear.

Roberts said the rule also stated that players should be "clean shaven."

Roberts sat in the press box at the tournament and ruled whether individual players had acceptable hair lengths.

One player from Springdale was ordered to shave his mustache in order to play after it was discovered that a bandage on his upper lip was not protecting a cut, but concealing the mustache.

Rod Laver Ahead at Quebec

QUEBEC (AP) — Second seeded Rod Laver of Australia fought off a strong challenge from a relatively unknown South African Tuesday to win 6-4, 4-6, 7-6, and advanced into second-round singles play at the Quebec International Tennis Open.

Bob Maud, a native of Johannesburg, fought tooth and nail with Laver through three action-packed sets that took two hours. The final set went to the seven-point tie-breaker and the Australian star triumphed 10-8 in the decisive 13th game.

The week-long $50,000 open ends Sunday.

In other singles matches, Nikki Pilic of Yugoslavia defeated Fred Stolle of Australia 7-6, 6-4, Roy Emerson downed Tom Leonard of the United States 6-2, 7-6, Tom Okker of the Netherlands beat American Ron Holmberg 6-2, 6-2, South Africa's Cliff Drysdale scored a pair of 6-4 wins over Bill Bowrey of Australia, Ray Ruffels of Australia beat Mark Cox of England, 7-6, 4-6, 6-2, and Ken Rosewall of Australia downed England's Graham Stilwell, 6-4, 7-5.

Progress on the new Howards Discount Center on Highway 4 is moving along speedily. The building is not as completed as was hoped it would be at this time due to a long delay in getting some of the materials.

No date has been set for the opening. After the building is completed then the new fixtures will have to be set up and, of course, new stock will have to be arranged on the shelves.

The work underway includes: tiling the floor, ceiling, electrical work and lights, sprinkler system and roofing.

The new building has been installed with the newest and most efficient incinerators that are accepted by the Arkansas Pollution Board.

The front of the building will have a glassed entrance. A great deal of progress can be seen in this area of the construction in the next week to ten days.

The new building will have sufficient air conditioning to keep the building at the right temperature.

Cramped Conditions at Games

CALI, Colombia (AP) — Helmeted Colombian police armed with carbines patrol a four-story brick structure, their job eased by a seven-foot barbed wire fence.

That is the VI Pan American Games.

Bongo drums and calypso walls erupt from another building as muscular Caribbean athletes serenade while tee-shirts, sweatsocks and unmentionables hang from windows to dry.

That, too, is Pan Am 1971. Cali, a mushrooming city of a million cuddled by the northern Andes, became an instant sports melting pot this week as host to 30 nations and 3,058 performers.

Monsoon-type rains hampered construction of stadiums in early summer, leaving a dominant look at rough, unpainted concrete and frantic work crews trying to finish by Friday's opening ceremonies.

"Home" for the 2,537 males and 521 females is the Pan American Village.

Small, often-steamy rooms are jammed with up to 17 athletes in bunk beds. Areas have as few as eight restrooms for 150 persons.

Many Latin American participants griped Tuesday that their evening showers came as late as 11 o'clock from those caught near the end of the line.

4 Join
Golf Hall of Fame

By D. BYRON YAKE
Associated Press Sports Writer
PITTSBURGH (AP) — Four golfers, including contemporaries Julius Boros and Dr. Cary Middlecoff, were inducted into the American Golf Hall of Fame Tuesday night.

Jock Hutchinson, the late Walter J. Travis, Boros and Middlecoff joined 31 other golfers already inducted. Hutchinson was not present for the ceremonies.

Boros won the World Championship of Golf Tournament in 1952 and 1955, the PGA in 1968 and the U.S. Seniors' Open in 1970.

He is paired with Bill Collins in the National Team Championship which begins Thursday in nearby Ligonier.

The paunchy Boros, who enters only a few tournaments each year and spends most of his time fishing, said he was happy about his nomination.

"There are all kinds of Halls of Fame, you know, but I am pleased about this honor," he said.

Middlecoff, a dentist, won the U.S. Open in 1949 and 1956 and the Masters in 1955.

"This is a great honor," he said. "And to be included with guys like Sam Snead, Ben Hogan, and Arnie Palmer is really something."

Hutchinson was the PGA winner in 1920, took the British Open in 1921, was a two-time winner of the U.S. Seniors' Open.

Travis won the U.S. Amateur Tournament in 1900, 1901 and 1903. He was also the first foreign-born winner of the British Open in 1904.

Contract Demands Made

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Players of the American Basketball Association demanded Tuesday that elimination of option and reserve clauses be included in any merger with the National Basketball Association.

Such elimination would permit a player to bargain with any team at the end of his current contract. In the ABA, the contracts have option clauses which give a team a player's services one year following expiration of his contract.

Zelma Beatty of the champion Utah Stars, president of the ABA Players Association, said the group favored merger but "only if the players could be certain that they would have complete freedom to negotiate their contracts."

With the ABA and NBA operating as separate entities, salaries have risen because of the competition.

Beatty, who switched from the NBA Atlanta Hawks to the Stars of the ABA, had to sit out one year due to the contract clauses. He has just completed the first season of a four-year pact.

Beatty said in an interview the ABA Players' Association would not oppose a merger "if the reserve clause and the option clause were completely stricken from the standard player contract."

He added:

"Any merger without this protection would be clearly against the best interests of both the ABA and NBA player groups."

Beatty said that Oscar Robertson of Milwaukee's NBA champions who is president of the NBA players organization agrees.

Onassis Girl Is Married

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Christina Onassis, 20-year-old daughter of Aristotle Onassis, has married 47-year-old Joseph Bolker, a Hollywood real estate man.

"I did not know who it was until I got there," said District Court Judge Carl Christensen, called to a local law office Tuesday to perform the brief civil ceremony.

"I asked, 'Is this the famous Onassis family?' and she said, 'I am the daughter.'"

There were half a dozen spectators, apparently none from the family of the Greek shipping magnate who is married to the widow of President John F. Kennedy.

The judge said the couple flew here from Los Angeles and returned after the ceremony.

NO QUESTION but that summer is fun for the very young, even on New York City's steamy Lower East Side. During the hot months, some streets in the concrete jungle are turned into play streets, off limits to traffic.

Montgomery
6-5 Over
Arkansas

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—First baseman John Young cracked two home runs to power the Montgomery Rebels to a 6-5 victory over the Arkansas Travelers in a Dixie Association game here Tuesday night.

Ike Blossitt poked his 13th homer of the season for the Rebels.

Right-hander Ray Blossie retired the first 14 Travelers to come to bat and picked up the victory although he needed relief in the last two innings. Blossie is now 3-2 for the season.

Ike Brookens, who relieved Traveler starter Steve Evans in the sixth, was the loser, dropping his record to 2-6.

Jorge Roque collected three RBI for the Travelers and Tom Heintzelman collected two of the Travelers' nine hits.

In other league games Tuesday night, Albuquerque whipped Dallas-Fort Worth 8-3, Memphis swept a doubleheader from Savannah 2-0 and 8-0, San Antonio nipped Amarillo 6-5, Birmingham dumped Columbus 9-3, Asheville swept Jacksonville 9-1 and Charlotte clipped Shreveport 6-2.

Graham escaped May 31 from Cummins Prison Farm, where he was serving a life sentence for conviction of the kidnapping of the wife of a DeValls Bluff banker in 1969.

BANGKOK (AP) — Narcotics agents from Thailand, South Vietnam and the United States in their first combined operation have cracked a major heroin ring supplying American soldiers in Vietnam.

They seized 97 pounds of pure heroin—one of the largest hauls ever in Asia—and 660 pounds of smoking opium. The cache, which had a wholesale value in Saigon of $4 million, originated in Burma and Laos and is now in the hands of the Saigon police.

Two South Vietnamese sailors were among the 25 persons seized in a round-the-clock operation that had agents pouncing in Saigon, in a Vietnamese fishing village and on an offshore island in the Gulf of Thailand.

Keep Mouth
Shut in
E. Germany

By GENE KRAMER
Associated Press Writer
BERLIN (AP) — When visiting East Germany, keep your mouth shut says an American student who spent 18 months in an East Berlin prison.

"If you spend 10 minutes in East Germany talking with anybody, the chances are you'll open yourself up to a charge of slandering the state," said Mark Huessy of Jericho, Vt., a 22-year-old junior at Pomona College, in Claremont, Calif.

"It can include anything from criticizing a policeman to saying the trains don't run on time—which they don't—because of poor planning."

"Everybody knows that a country like that has political laws, but you don't realize how they work until you are subjected to them."

The secret police arrested Huessy on Jan. 4, 1970 in an East Berlin subway station. Within a few hours he realized he and his contacts in the Communist capital had been under surveillance. Huessy, fluent in German, had spent several months in East Berlin talking to people about his two specialties—the late Berthold Brecht, the renowned playwright, and anti-Nazi resistance.

"I can only assume they actually thought at first that I was a spy," he said, recalling he was investigated first on espionage charges. These were later reduced to charges of slandering the state and hostile agitation.

"Miscarriages of justice happen in any country, but the East Germans were dishonest about admitting they had made a mistake," Huessy said.

"They arrested me on a false charge. Having established that it was false, they investigated me enough to prove to themselves I was guilty of a very minor and technical violation—slander."

The charge of hostile agitation was added because "they decided to make a serious crime of it," he claimed.

Huessy was convicted last Sept. 21 and sentenced to seven years in prison. This was reduced on appeal to five years. He was freed on probation July 16 and returned to West Berlin with the five other Americans then in East German captivity on various charges.

Huessy said he was accused at his trial of making 16 statements that were slanderous to the East German regime and designed to incite resistance to it.

He said he never made at least 10 of them, including one that the regime would collapse if the Soviet army moved out.

Huessy said one of the statements he admitted making was about the Communists' single-state election, that the term "election" entailed a choice and thus the East German "election" would more properly be called a referendum on public acceptability of the candidates.

Graham was arrested July 16 in Ludington, Mich., on a federal warrant charging him as an escapee from the Arkansas prison.

There was no indication on when Graham might be returned to Arkansas.

land.

The seizure took place Sunday and Monday and was disclosed in Bangkok by Gen. Nityz Bhanumas, secretary-general of the Thai Narcotics Board. He said the first information about the ring—which was led by a wealthy Chinese merchant in the Cholon section of Saigon—came from informants he developed in an investigation he directed last month.

The general said none of the heroin or opium was processed in Thailand but it was hauled through the country by truck and loaded on fishing vessels along the Thai coast.

"My nation is a major transit route for illicit drugs," he added.

Nitya said two or three other rings seem to have halted operations because of the raids.

The use of heroin among American troops in Vietnam is a matter of major concern to U.S. officials. The drug is freely available anywhere in Saigon.

Thailand sent a key crime suppression officer, Col. Pramual Vanigbandhu, to Saigon last Saturday. He traveled with U.S. narcotics agent Jack Greene, who led the team that captured the leader of the dope ring Tap Vinh, at his house in Cholon.

The chief of Vietnam's narcotics bureau, Le Dac Tinh Huong, flew with the Thai colonel on the raiding mission to the coastal town of Rach Gia and the Vietnamese island of Phuoc Quoc. The blocks of opium and 127 plastic bags of heroin were found in seven different places.

"The narcotics were being stored outside Saigon because the Americans have been demanding increasing police pressure in Saigon," Gen. Nitya said.

The raids began at 5 a.m. Sunday. Everyone was in position. Those who seized Tap Vinh after surrounding his house got a quick confession by playing to him tapes made by an informant who had discussed the drug deliveries with Tap Vinh. The informant had been rigged with a tape recorder strapped under his shirt.

The two Vietnamese navy men were picked up guarding a cache of heroin and opium near Rach Gia, Col. Pramual said.

American narcotics agents in Bangkok tried to minimize the U.S. role in the roundup, giving major credit to the Thais. But the Americans played a key part in the preparations and in Vietnam flew the raiding parties to their targets in planes of Air America, the CIA's charter airline.

To Reduce
State-Owned Vehicles

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Education Commissioner Arch W. Ford said Tuesday the Education Department would reduce the number of state-owned vehicles it uses by 40.

Ford said the action was taken in order to comply with a request last week by Gov. Dale Bumpers that state department heads try to reduce the number of state-owned vehicles.

Ford said that 33 vehicles were being removed from the vocational technical schools and that another seven cars being used by general education employees would be done away with. Ford said the 300 general education employees at the Capitol would be left with three cars.

The surplus vehicles will be turned over to the state Finance and Administration Department to be sold or assigned to other state agencies.

Ford said his staff could get along without the vehicles without any reduction in services.

Bumpers told the 13 department heads last week that they should review the use of state-owned vehicles in the agencies under their control and dispose of those that were not essential.

The governor indicated Tuesday he was pleased with Ford's reduction in vehicles.

Ford said the vehicles to be taken from the vocational-technical schools included 20 passenger cars, six pickup trucks, three station wagons and four heavy trucks.

The seven vehicles to be taken from the Capitol employees are all passenger cars.

Nixon Deficit May Reach 25 Billions

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration rolled out final figures today on the nation's second largest budget deficit since World War II, a fiscal 1971 red-ink figure between $20 billion and $25 billion.

The precise figure, set for announcement by the Treasury Department, is topped only by the $25.2-billion deficit rung up during fiscal 1968 under former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

But the 1971 deficit is not apt to attract wide criticism from Democrats, who have urged President Nixon to spend even more to give the economy more steam.

It does reflect a dramatic change in Nixon's economic thinking since he became president. When the fiscal 1971 budget was submitted to Congress in early 1970, Nixon said it would show a $1.3-billion surplus.

"I have pledged to the American people that I would submit a balanced budget for 1971," Nixon said in that budget message. "This is particularly necessary because the cost of living has been rising rapidly for the past five years."

"The budget I send to you today—the first for which I bear full responsibility as president—fulfill that pledge."

The projected $1.3-billion surplus for the year ended June 30, 1971, quickly faded away. Unforeseen outlays, some uncontrollable increases and some unwanted spending voted by Congress sent the deficit soaring.

Nixon, meantime, adopted the policy that the economy should be expanded with increased federal spending and declared himself a believer in Keynesian economics—the idea budget deficits are necessary during periods of economic slack.

But the economy has failed to pick up as snappily as Nixon wanted, adding to the budget deficit through a shortage in revenues.

When Nixon submitted his fiscal 1972 budget to Congress, he projected the 1971 deficit officially at $18.6 billion. The jump past $20 billion is largely traced to failure of the economy to provide expected tax money.

The administration appears certain to set another mark, the largest back-to-back budget deficits since World War II.

Although the budget deficit for the newly begun fiscal year is officially set at $11.6 billion, the administration said new expenditures by Congress and a revenue shortage will add at least another $7 billion to that.

A two-year deficit in the neighborhood of $45 billion is seen likely.

Expects Nixon Opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., said Tuesday that he expected strong opposition from the Nixon administration on a proposed amendment to provide additional funds for such projects as the proposed unit of the Arkansas Children's Colony in North-east Arkansas.

Alexander said the amendment to the Health, Education and Welfare appropriations bill would provide an additional $57 million over committee recommendations in the area of state-federal vocational rehabilitation services.

Alexander is cosponsor of the amendment. He said the proposal would not guarantee immediate funding for the North-east Arkansas unit but it would provide funds that could be used when the project is approved.

Assessment Is Approved

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The approval of a one-quarter cent per bushel assessment approved last week by Arkansas soybean producers became official Tuesday.

The assessment proposal was approved in a referendum by a vote of 4,392 to 736. The vote was certified Tuesday by the Executive Committee of the Arkansas Soybean Promotion Board.

The assessment will increase to one-half cent a bushel next year. The money will be used for research, promotion and market development.

Kennedy Memorial Half-Dollar Piles Up; No Public Demand

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly 200 million 1971 Kennedy half dollars are gathering dust in government coffers, going largely unused for reasons the Treasury Department can't fully understand.

"I can't understand the population," said Mary T. Brooks, director of the U.S. Mint, shaking her head. "They're not using them."

The situation has reached the point Federal Reserve banks are calling commercial banks to spark demand, figuring if the public knows there are plenty of new half dollars, bearing the likeness of former President John F. Kennedy, demand will pick up.

"There are vending machines by the thousands sitting in warehouses," Mrs. Brooks said in an interview. "The owners are dying to use them if the banks would use the half dollars."

But commercial banks say they are not ordering the coins because the public demand is too weak.

"I can't understand it," she said. "The half dollar weighs exactly the same as two quarters and there would be less rattling in the pocket. They're much less trouble."

The 1964-69 Kennedy halves, which were part silver, never were in general circulation because the public stashed them away as collectors' items even though more than one billion were minted, she said.

Congress last year gave the Treasury authority to mint an unlimited number of the new copy-nickel coins. But there was a full year, 1970, in which the public became unaccustomed to seeing the half dollar.

Sudan Hangs Communist Party Head

By C. C. MINICLIER
Associated Press Writer

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — The chief of Sudan's Communist party was hanged early today in the 14th execution since last week's unsuccessful attempt to depose President Jaafar el Numeiri.

The government announced that Abdul Khalek Mahjoub, leader of the largest Communist party in the Arab world, was hanged 11 hours after the close of his trial on charges of masterminding the short-lived coup in an attempt to turn Sudan into a Communist state.

Numairi's government is hunting down all Sudanese Communists, and Joseph Garang, an avowed Red and a Cabinet minister until he was arrested two days ago, was hanged Tuesday night.

Garang was minister for the South Sudan, the area where black animists and Christians have been fighting the rule of the Northern Sudan's Arab Moslems for 15 years. The coup leaders had promised the South autonomy once order was restored in the country.

Garang, a black, published a weekly newspaper in English, the Nile Mirror, which had criticized Numairi's government for failing to make good on old promises to grant the South autonomy.

Mahjoub, at his trial denied that he had any advance knowledge of the July 19 coup and challenged the impartiality of his military judges.

"I knew there was a lot of discontent in the country and the armed forces, but I did not know about the coup in advance," Mahjoub testified.

Mahjoub's trial at the Saha-gara army camp outside Khartoum was the first of the military tribunals trying accused coup leaders to be open to the press. But when a key government witness balked at testifying, the newsmen were led out. The trial lasted for several more hours behind closed doors, according to the official Omdurman Radio.

The government Arabic press today listed some 30 alleged Communists and urged anyone knowing their whereabouts to turn them in. About 400 military personnel are said to be under arrest along with an unknown number of civilians.

Numairi outlawed the 6,000-member Communist party last February because of its opposition to his plans to join the Arab Federation that Libya, Egypt and Syria have formed.

U.S. Steel Cuts Dividend — Strike Hedge

NEW YORK (AP) — Bethlehem Steel Corp. today reported a sharp increase in earnings for the three months ending June 30 but forecast a drop in profits in the final half of this year.

U.S. Steel Corp. had announced big earnings gains Tuesday but cut its quarterly dividend to 40 cents a share from 60 cents. The dividend reduction reflected the threat of a steel industry strike July 31 and an expected decline in steel products shipments later this year.

Bethlehem declared its regularly 30-cent dividend.

Bethlehem, ranked second in size to U.S. Steel, earned $47,854,000, or $1.08 a share, on sales of $1,011,764,000 in the second quarter. This compares with $26,176,000, or 59 cents a share, on sales of $763,862,000 a year earlier.

In the first half of this year Bethlehem earnings totaled $80,979,000, or $1.83 a share, or sales of $1,783,732,000, compared with $34,482,000, or $1.24 a share, on sales of $1,525,020,000 in the 1970 first half.

Bethlehem said first-half shipments and especially those in the second quarter were abnormally high as consumers built up inventories as a hedge against a strike.

U.S. Steel Chairman H. Gott had cited this factor in his announcement Tuesday.

Gott did not comment specifically on the dividend reduction. But he noted the possibility of a strike and said shipments were expected to fall off during the rest of 1971 because users' inventories were built up in the first half as a hedge against a strike. He also cited rising imports.

Negotiators for the nine large steel producers and the United Steelworkers of America are holding secret talks in Washington.

U.S. Steel's net income for the latest quarter ended June 30 totaled $77,874,000, or $1.44 a share, compared with $39,374,250 or 72 cents a share for the same period last year. Sales for the second quarter this year reached $1,415 billion, compared with $1,291 billion for the same 1970 period.

U.S. Steel's announcement of the dividend cut and earnings results came after the close of the stock market. The price of U.S. Steel common stock had edged up 12 cents a share to $31.12 on the New York Stock Exchange Tuesday.

U.S. Steel said product shipments in the second quarter were 6.9 million tons, compared with 5.5 million tons in the same period last year.

Man Who Gave Away Secrets Summoned

By JAY PARKINS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Daniel Ellsberg, a former Defense Department researcher who says he leaked top-secret Pentagon papers to the press, was called today before an unofficial House panel investigating significance of the war documents.

The group of 18 antiwar Democratic congressmen headed by Rep. John G. Dow of New York gave no hint what Ellsberg might testify.

Ellsberg is under federal indictment on charges of violating the Espionage Act and stealing government property. He was arrested June 28 after admitting he gave the press copies of the 47-volume Pentagon study he helped to draft.

The Pentagon papers, covering a 20-year period, outline U.S. involvement in Vietnam. Tony Russo, like Ellsberg, a former employee of Rand Corp. which is involved in Defense research, told the unofficial panel Tuesday that present U.S. policy in Vietnam "rests on as many lies and as much deceit as we see in the Pentagon papers."

Russo, who has been cited for contempt of court for refusing to discuss unauthorized disclosure of the documents with a grand jury, said prison conditions in South Vietnam may be playing a part in the battle over information about U.S. prisoners of war.

"We sit here and demand information about prisoners of war in North Vietnam, but even at the jail in Saigon the jailkeeper doesn't have a list of who's there," Russo said.

Russo made studies of South Vietnamese prisoners and jails in 1965-66 and 1967-68.

DO-IT-YOURSELF

A sticking drawer is generally a warm weather problem. Really a warm, humid weather problem. Drawers that worked easily all winter did so because the air was dry. But moist air during the summer causes wood to swell.

Drawers are generally made of soft wood and left unfinished, hence the problem.

If the sticking is slight it may be cured with little more than rubbing paraffin or a grease stick over the joining parts.

If lubrication doesn't help, sand the sliding parts until the drawer works freely. If the rubbing is severe and sanding doesn't work, you may have to plane off a small amount of wood.

Don't plane off too much. Come winter and the warm dry air will cause the wood to shrink again. Then you will have a drawer that wobbles.

Never force a drawer that gets stuck. You may damage it. If you can get it slightly open and there is room in the drawer, place a lighted electric bulb on the end or an extension cord inside the drawer. Make sure there is nothing burnable near the bulb.

A few hours of this treatment and the heat should expand the wood enough to let the drawer open. Then sand lightly and apply lubrication.

If you can't get a bulb in or if this treatment doesn't get results, remove the back of the piece of furniture. The back of a bureau is generally held on with screws or small nails.

With the back off you should be able to maneuver the drawer and open it or at least get a light bulb in from the back side.

Has Name Removed From Suit

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — John W. Walker of Little Rock, attorney for the plaintiffs in the Blytheville school desegregation suit, said Tuesday that he had not talked with the plaintiffs in the case about filing the suit.

One of the plaintiffs, Mrs. Bertha Thigpen, had filed a motion earlier in the day in U.S. District Court at Jonesboro requesting that her name be removed from the suit.

Mrs. Thigpen's motion said that she had "never discussed any matter of any nature with the attorneys." The motion went on to say that the filing of the suit had caused her and her children "great embarrassment, anguish, ridicule and concern."

The other plaintiffs in the suit are Mrs. Emanuel Franklin and Mrs. Johnetta McKinney.

Walker said the names of the plaintiffs had been given to him by the Blytheville chapter of the NAACP. He said he had no direct contact with the plaintiffs.

Father-Daughter Candidacy

by JIM MCCALL
Associated Press Writer

ROGERS, Ark. (AP) — The possibility of a father-daughter candidacy is a very likely possibility in next year's elections. That in itself is unique. But the fact that the daughter is only 19 years old makes the possibility even more unique.

The father-daughter team is Bill Nelson, an unsuccessful Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor in 1970, and his daughter, Janice.

The pretty University of Arkansas coed registered to vote last Friday in Benton County.

She said "if things worked out" she would run for office next year on the state level — probably state representative.

"Right now though, I'm more interested in encouraging young people to vote," she said.

Nelson, a Rogers businessman, says he is thinking about running for the 3rd District congressional seat now held by Rep. John Paul Hammer-schmidt, R-Ark.

"It looks like the position might be up for grabs in the Democratic primary," Nelson said. "And there's a good chance that a Democrat could defeat Congressman Hammer-schmidt."

Nelson said it was still too early to make a definite statement.

"I'm not ruling out the 3rd District race — or any other race for that matter," Nelson said.

He said he was considering three possibilities on both the state and federal levels.

Jan, as she prefers to be called, said she did not think her age would be a handicap in running for state office. "I think my personal idealism and desire make up for my lack of experience," she said.

She is a sophomore at the University of Arkansas at Little Rock. She is very interested in constitutional law and says she would like, some day, to become a member of the state Supreme Court.

Jan was indoctrinated into political life last year. She served as her father's campaign manager.

"I am extremely proud of Jan for her interest in politics," Nelson said. He said he would go "all out" to help her in running for office.

Jan said she would be ready to begin campaigning at the end of the next school year.

"My reason for announcing my plans now is the hope that it will influence more young people to vote and take an active part in politics," she said.

Jan is active in the Arkansas Young Democrats and in the drive to register 18-year-old voters.

"I think that a majority of the young people who have registered to vote so far are Republicans," she said. "I just hope that more Democrats will take advantage of the opportunity."

She said, however, that she thought a lot of the young people who supported former Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller have come back to support Gov. Dale Bumpers.

"He (Bumpers) is very appealing to our generation," she said.

"Genocide" Idea Not Accepted

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A study of black families has found that a majority of those in the reproductive age range do not accept the idea that birth control programs are an attempt to eliminate blacks from the population.

Some militant blacks have argued that family planning programs are aimed at black "genocide," the deliberate elimination of a cultural group.

But the study also found that a significant minority—among men 30 and under—did agree with the thought that encouraging birth control on blacks is an effort to eliminate them.

Further, the study found significant feelings of racial consciousness among blacks and recommended community control of birth control services and the inclusion of young black males in policy making and executive functions.

As for attitudes toward birth control methods, both abortion and sterilization were rejected by large numbers of those interviewed.

The study was conducted in 159 black households in a medium-sized city in New England, not identified, by researchers at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, and reported in a publication of the Population Reference Bureau.

THE 18-YEAR-OLD VOTE

Where the New Voters Are

More than 11 million new voters are added to the rolls with ratification of the 26th Amendment to the Constitution establishing 18 as the minimum voting age throughout the nation. The total eligible voting population is now estimated at 139,563,000. Greatest number of new voters is in the most populous state, California. None have been added in Georgia and Kentucky, which previously permitted 18-year-olds to vote. In Alaska, the minimum age was 19 and in Hawaii, 20.

A Tale of a Girl and Her Horse

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — This is, loosely speaking, the tale of a young lady and a horse.

There are no tears here. The story is no "National Velvet," the popular book and movie, whose young heroine has dreams that "were made of clouds but had the shapes of horses," who envisioned bay horses "with black manes hanging like silk" and "buttocks that shone like mahogany."

In this story, there are no militant triumphs for present-day female jocks. No ridings off into any saccharine sunsets, either. There was, in fact, in the beginning, galloping boredom.

April Shawhan, a young, rising Broadway actress, has a father, Paul, who owns a horse, Sir Woodley, which ran in a race, at Liberty Bell in Philadelphia recently. On this lush Saturday afternoon Sir Woodley, a two-year-old chestnut colt was being ridden by Don Brumfield, who won the Kentucky Derby aboard Kauai King in 1966.

Now, April's father has owned horses for several years, has had several stakes winners, too, including Wedlock, which won the Kentucky Oaks at Churchill Downs in 1959.

But none of this excited

Engineer Projects Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Public Works appropriations bill approved Monday by the House Appropriations Committee included several Army Engineer projects in Arkansas.

The first figure in the list that follows is the committee-approved allowance; the second figure is the President's budget recommendation.

$975,000, $975,000; De Queen Lake $2,600,000, $2,600,000; Dierks Lake $2,380,000, $2,380,000; Little Rock Levee $260,000 reserve available; Ouachita and Black rivers in Arkansas and Louisiana $3,803,000, $1,803,000; McClellan-Kerr Arkansas River navigation system in Arkansas and Oklahoma $16,225,000, $16,225,000; Ozark Lock and Dam $8,800,000, $8,800,000; Red River levees and bank stabilization below Denison Dam in Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas $1,550,000 and $1,550,000.

Planning — Bayou Bartholomew and tributaries in Arkansas and Louisiana $145,000, $145,000; Bell Foley Lake $175,000, $175,000.

Also, the Appropriations Committee approved Monday an $80.9 million grant for flood control projects on the Mississippi River and its tributaries.

Included was a project for examinations and surveys in the St. Francis River basin below Wappapello Reservoir, Ark., and Missouri, $48,000.

Also $1.15 million was approved for construction and $4.58 million for planning in the St. Francis basin. Also approved was construction and planning for the lower White River, Big Creek and tributaries, $70,000; lower White River, Clarendon levee, $100,000; Cache River, $100,000 for construction and $370,000 for planning.

April Shawhan
A horse liker.

April very much.

Perhaps somewhere deep in her id lurked the moment when she was 5 and a pony, feeling his bourbon, stepped on her toe. Or years later at another riding stable when she climbed aboard the "calmest, sweetest, oldest, tireddest horse in the world," and was terrified. "My God, he was big!" April recalls.

But since her father, who lives in Dayton, Ohio, was to be in Philadelphia for this recent race, April decided to visit him there. In the paddock, one horse came by swishing its tail and, as tradition would have it, slapped our jumpy heroine on the arm. But when April saw Sir Woodley she was taken by him. (Afterward, when asked his color, she said, "a very pretty one.")

The race was thrilling, even for April. Bell rings. Horses break. April tenses.

She stood just outside the paddock and could see nothing but the faint bobbing of distant heads and manes. She had to rely on the call from her father, watching with field glasses.

"Oh," said her father.

"Oh?" asked April.

"Ah," said her father.

"Ah?" replied his daughter.

Then: "Woodley's in trouble!"

Earlier in the day April had witnessed one jockey thrown, a horse fallen, an ambulance rushed to the scene. She had seen another horse bleeding from the mouth. That's what trouble meant to her.

What happened now was that Brumfield, caught on the rail, pulled up a bit to get some room, fell to last. But he quickly got Sir Woodley back in the race.

The roar of the crowd swelled as the horses turned into the homestretch. With Sir Woodley among the frantic, booming blur of the pack, our now fearless heroine lost her lovely, strawberry-blond head. She ran toward the onrushing horses.

Soybean Referendum Passes

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—A statewide referendum of Arkansas soybean producers, which would activate a check-off on this year's soybean crop, has passed by a comfortable majority, says Nick Rose, president of the Arkansas Soybean Association.

A favorable three-fifths vote is required to put the checkoff into effect. With over 75 percent of the vote counted, the favorable vote is running about 85 percent.

The referendum was sponsored by the Arkansas Soybean Association and other farm groups. All Arkansas soybean producers were eligible to vote. The vote was conducted at county ASCS offices July 12-20. The checkoff will be collected by buyers at first point of sale of the crop.

"The funds, which will be administered by a nine-man Arkansas Soybean Promotion Board appointed by the governor, will go for research on soybean production in Arkansas and market development," said Mr. Rose.

"More profit per acre is the goal of research supported by the checkoff. Since more soybeans are needed, the greatest step toward more profits would be higher yields," said Rose. "Soybean yields can be improved just as other commercial crop yields have been improved," he added.

The Arkansas Soybean Association president said Arkansas soybean growers are heavily dependent on overseas markets, and one-half of Arkansas soybeans are now being exported abroad.

"This did not just happen," said Mr. Rose; "these growing world markets are the result of a united effort of soybean producers through the American Soybean Association."

To date, soybean farmers in seven states other than Arkansas (North Carolina, South Carolina, Louisiana, Virginia, Mississippi, Texas, and Florida), have voted to spend 1/2¢ per bushel for market development, research, and education. A referendum is now in progress in Georgia, and one is planned for mid-September in Iowa.

"These states are providing the lion's share of funds to operate a market development program in eight foreign countries. But, there are four more countries (Yugoslavia, Korea, France, and the United Kingdom) where market development activities would yield tremendous increases in consumption of U.S. soybeans," said Rose.

"And, research should be conducted in at least twenty additional countries such as Greece, Portugal, Morocco, and Lebanon, to test the markets there," he said.

6 Arrested on Gambling Charges

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Six persons were arrested Monday in Arkansas on charges of operating an illegal gambling business and conspiracy to violate the Organized Crime Control Act of 1970.

Herbert E. Hoxie, special agent in charge of the Little Rock office of the FBI, said the charges were contained in indictments returned by a federal Grand Jury for the Western District of Arkansas that met Thursday at Hot Springs.

The indictments, made public Monday at Fort Smith, alleged that seven persons had violated the 1970 act by conducting a bookmaking operation last fall that was "centered" in western Arkansas.

Officials said the seventh defendant, Louis Klein of Fort Smith, had been notified of the indictment and was to sur-

Labor Dept. Recesses Joint Talks

By JERRY BROWN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — With negotiations derailed by a continuing deadlock over work rules, the Labor Department has recessed joint talks indefinitely in a building railroad strike that may yet see congressional intervention.

Combined union-management negotiations were suspended indefinitely Monday with an announcement by W.J. Usery Jr., assistant secretary of labor, that "a voluntary solution cannot be reached at this time."

Usery indicated Sunday he thought a settlement might be near, but conceded after the

There were indications, meanwhile, of mounting pressure for legislation to force an end to the strike that has closed down the Southern, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and Norfolk and Western lines.

A Labor Department spokesman said the Nixon administration has refrained from seeking strike-ending legislation "because economic pressures have not been such to require legislation."

But Usery described the

The walkout already has affected approximately 20 percent of the nation's rail cargo and tied up shipments of grain, coal, food and other goods in 17 states.

The UTU says it will strike six other railroads Friday: the Atchafalaya, Topeka & Santa Fe; Alton & Southern; Houston Belt & Terminal; Duluth, Mesabi & Iron Range; Joliet & Eastern; and Bessemer and Lake Erie.

Five other lines scheduled for strikes Aug. 6 are the Baltimore & Ohio; Chesapeake & Ohio; Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific; Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific; and Missouri, Kansas and Texas.

Gia Scala on Probation

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Gia Scala, 37, has been fined $125 and placed on two years' probation in connection with an altercation involving a parking lot attendant.

Municipal Judge Irwin J. Nebron imposed sentence Monday after Miss Scala pleaded no contest to a misdemeanor charge of disturbing the peace last April in a dispute over a 50-cent fee.

When the judge told her a condition of probation was that she not associate with known narcotics users, Miss Scala objected, saying, "I have never been around such people." The judge said the condition is standard in probation cases.

Much Well-Being Owe to Plants

Few people realize how much of their well-being they really owe to plants, according to George Brown, district conservationist. Trees, shrubs, flowers and lawn grasses help to hold soil in place and purify both water and air, and larger plants also are valuable in noise abatement.

Plants protect soil from heavy rains and prevent silt, pesticides and other damaging materials from washing into streams and lakes. They also help rain to penetrate and increase our ground water reserves.

Pollutants abound in the air of large cities and are becoming an increasing problem even in many small towns and villages in Arkansas. Fresh air is becoming more rare, even in the country.

One of the best detectors of polluted air is a living plant. For example, the white petunia is susceptible to smog damage and often is used as a indicator. While plants perform this function and alert man to his danger, they also help in vital oxygen exchange in the atmosphere. Much carbon dioxide is used by plants in the manufacture of foods, and in the process they sweeten the air by releasing pure oxygen. Without green plants, it would not be possible to correct air pollution. Woody plants especially have the ability to remove grit, dust and other particles from the air which are returned to the soil when it rains.

Wind, as well as water, causes soil erosion, particularly in the Arkansas Delta where large tracts have been cleared, but proper plantings can control or greatly reduce blowing soil.

Plants have the power to reduce noise in the same way acoustical ceilings in your home operate. They absorb noise just as the soil absorbs water. City streets lined with trees and shrubs always are much quieter than similar streets where no planting has been done.

George Brown said that in making selections for conservation plantings, homeowners should not overlook native trees, shrubs and flowers for they often thrive where exotic species may perish.

Man's Best Friend May Be Chemicals

In a time when the general public is so conscious about pollution, chemicals may be a man's best friend, says County Extension Agent Calvin J. Caldwell. Did you ever take the time to think what would happen to our food supply if no chemicals were used?

A few things that come to mind are: (1) A sharp increase in the price of food, (2) a decline in the quality of food, (3) availability of food would be a problem, especially perishable fruits and vegetables, and (4) we wouldn't need as many lawyers, doctors, industrialists, bankers, and other business people because they would need to be out producing food. There are many other things that could be said in favor of chemical use.

Farmers of Hempstead County, as with other farmers across the land, are using as little pesticide as necessary to control pests of their crops. Pesticide manufacturers and research people are doing an excellent job of supplying

Rain Is Major News to Cotton

RAIN. That's the headline and major news of the week for Arkansas cotton farmers, reports Mr. E.R. McInnes, Officer in Charge of the Little Rock Cotton Classing Office, Consumer and Marketing Service, USDA. Cotton was beginning to suffer from lack of moisture during this peak fruiting period. Irrigation equipment was used all over the territory prior to these weekend rains.

Fields are in a good state of cultivation. Plant height is such now that it will be difficult for farmers to continue cultivation. Insect problems are cropping up in various sections of the state; however, only a small percentage of farmers are having to poison. Predator populations are still high.

The deadline for redeeming loan cotton is fast approaching. The takeover date for the Commodity Credit Corporation is August 1. By July 16, Arkansas farmers had only 9,079 bales of the 1970-71 cotton crop still in the loan. Outstanding loans in the United States now cover only 232,886 bales of cotton.

Activity on the Arkansas cotton markets is at a near standstill. A very small volume of loan cotton moves through trade channels each week, netting farmers $4.00 to $15.00 per bale.

Arkansas cotton farmers and merchants are watching with interest the movement of new-crop cotton down in South Texas. A major portion of the crop is already contracted. Movement through trade channels is not expected until the first week of August.

PERSONAL FINANCE

Learning to be a lawyer can be a tricky business.

Abraham Lincoln did it by reading the law, apprenticing himself to a practicing attorney. More recently, of course, the usual method has been to get a college degree, and then trot off to law school.

Yet as recently as last month, you could also get a law degree by mail, working away at lessons sent with regularity from a correspondence school in the Midwest.

But the caliber of legal education you can get through your letter carrier is open to question. In fact, the Federal Trade Commission recently ordered this school to admit in its advertisements that the degree it grants is insufficient basis for practicing the law in a single one of the 50 states.

The FTC's order only serves to underscore a condition of long standing. Too many of the nation's correspondence schools offer what may be described charitably as marginal education.

The yearnings of the undereducated have always been considered fair game by those who like to prey upon the more trusting among us.

The range of correspondence schooling is hard to exaggerate. "Learn to be a private detective" shouts one ad that has run for years without interruption.

Electrolysis, architecture, cost accounting, oil painting and writing comedy are only a few of the possibilities paraded before anyone who can read.

What's not so obvious is some simple method of assessing the real value of these offerings. Only occasionally does a watchdog like the FTC bestir itself to correct an abuse.

This means that if you have the yen to improve your mind via one of the many courses available by mail, you'd best tread with great care. And you could use some advice, too.

One place to try is the Better Business Bureau. It at least makes a stab at fingering the least worthy among the brotherhood.

An even better bet is the National Home Study Council (1601 18th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20009). This is an accreditation agency that patrols the perimeter of mail-order education for the best reason of all—self interest.

Its members work hard to offer a good product, and are hell-bent to keep the charlatans out of the fraternity.

Television and Radio

By JERRY BUCK

AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — NBC's George A. Heinemann likes to point out that he is a broadcaster, not an educator.

Then he displays a vehicle constructed of parts that are educational and entertainment.

His vehicle is "Take a Giant Step," a television show for children 7 to 14 years that premieres Saturday, Sept. 11. In addition, he is overseeing the development of a half-hour Monday-through-Friday show for children 3 to 6 years old for early 1972. That show, as yet unnamed, was announced Tuesday.

Heinemann, the bald, hearty, dedicated vice president of children's programming for NBC, whose experience goes back to the creation of "Ding Dong School" in 1952, spent more than a year working on the concept of "Take a Giant Step."

"When you combine education with entertainment it sends a little bit of tension through broadcasters," he said.

"Entertainment education wins awards but it doesn't win big audiences."

"The thing you must strive for is reach. Make a child reach for something, then the whole show comes alive. Suddenly, the education becomes entertaining and the entertainment becomes educational."

"Take a Giant Step," NBC's Saturday morning showcase series, is basically an hour talk show for children. All of the shows will be done live from September through June, except for six shows being taped this summer for holiday weekends.

Each week the show will have a different trio of teen-agers who will build the show around a theme such as beauty, machines, money, food, right and wrong, and happy-sad.

Over 10 weeks of preparation they will be exposed to various films and materials they could use to illustrate the theme. On the air the hosts will talk about the theme and call for whatever films strike their fancy.

Heinemann said the show will strive for spontaneity, allowing the kids to make their own decisions or their own mistakes. In the future children will be flown in from around the country to participate as guest hosts.

Investigating Executive Privilege

WASHINGTON (AP) — Against a backdrop of the Pentagon-papers tempest, a Senate subcommittee is launching an investigation of executive privilege, the asserted power of the president to withhold information from Congress.

"When the people do not know what their government is doing, those who govern are not accountable for their actions," said Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., chairman of the Judiciary subcommittee, in remarks prepared for today's opening session.

"And accountability is basic to the democratic system," he said. Focus of the three-day hearing is on a bill sponsored by Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., requiring a government official to present a signed statement from the president before he could claim executive privilege in refusing to testify before Congress.

Fulbright and Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., were to testify today. Scheduled Wednesday and Thursday are former Secretaries of State Dean Acheson and Dean Rusk and former Ambassador W. Averell Harriman.

Observing the inquiry has taken on special significance because of the recent controversy over disclosure of the top-secret Pentagon papers, Ervin said the Constitution is silent on executive privilege and the courts have not given any definite guidance on who has the power to classify.

"Beyond the penchant for maintaining secrecy through the whole innovation of executive privilege," Ervin said, "there is a more generalized attempt to withhold information" through the system of classifying documents.

Symington, chairman of a Foreign Relations subcommittee inquiring into U.S. commitments abroad, said in prepared remarks "the implied threat of executive privilege" hovered over the panel's efforts to obtain information it regards as crucial to the Senate's role in formulating a foreign policy.

Welcomes Republican Support

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said Monday "it never has bothered him to receive support from a Republican and that he welcomed an expression of confidence and goodwill" from Rep. John Paul Hammerschmidt, R-Ark.

"I try to represent my state and country and if I get approval of any citizen ... I welcome it," McClellan said from his Washington office in a telephone interview.

Hammerschmidt said Sunday in a television interview that he hoped McClellan would seek re-election.

"Our senior senator has served Arkansas so well that I would hate to see his chances jeopardized in any way because he has chances of becoming chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee and presidential pro tem of the Senate," Hammerschmidt said.

A statement attributed to McClellan's office and published Sunday in the Washington Post said that the state of McClellan's health will determine whether he seeks re-election in 1972.

"I haven't said I was going to (run) or not going to," McClellan said Monday. "I will make that announcement when it is in season. I have made no announcement."

Familiar Faces to Welcome Nixon on Visit to Chinese

By LEWIS GULICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence specialists peering through the Bamboo Curtain have spotted some familiar faces among those who may be with Premier Chou En-lai when President Nixon visits Peking.

Among the younger aides is 27-year-old U.S.-born Nancy Tang, described as Chou's main English interpreter.

Two of the most important are older men who had considerable experience with Americans in the years before the U.S.-Mainland China break in 1949. Chiao Kuan-ma and Chang Wen-chin speak fluent English and are rated as skilled professionals.

Chiao, formerly a vice minister of foreign affairs involved in Peking's relations with the Soviet Union and Communist East Europe, had American and West European affairs added to his assignment late last year.

Chiao is said to have served as a Communist liaison officer with Westerners during the 1940s and later with the New China News Agency in Hong Kong.

Chang, listed as chief of the West European and Americas department in Peking's foreign ministry, took part in the 1946 talks with the special U.S. mission to China headed by Gen.

George C. Marshall.

Another senior Red Chinese official is Tang Ming-chao. He has been with the Central Committee's department handling relations with Communist parties and countries abroad.

Tang lived in the United States for more than two decades and obtained U.S. citizenship while in this country. He edited a pro-Communist Chinese newspaper in New York City, and worked for the U.S. military as a translator during World War II, before returning to China in 1949.

Tang's daughter, Nancy, appears to be Chou's principal English interpreter though Chou has considerable knowledge of the language.

Nancy, 27, whose Chinese given name is Wen-sheng, was born in Brooklyn. She went to China with her mother in 1955.

Another fluent interpreter now in Peking is Harvard-educated Chi Chao-chu, who lived in the United States from the late 1930s until 1950.

Rx For Debtors in Distress

Each year, millions of people shake uncomfortably close to the brink of bankruptcy. Unwise spending, serious illness, loss of a job, setbacks in business—all these may bring on a fiscal crisis.

But in increasing numbers, debtors in distress are rescuing themselves by a technique known as the Wage Earner Plan. Although administered by the bankruptcy court, it is distinctly different from bankruptcy.

Under the Wage Earner Plan, the debtor agrees to pay off his debts out of future earnings instead of having them cancelled by bankruptcy. Under court supervision, he works out a payment schedule that may extend for three years or longer.

In return, he gets immediate relief from his financial pressures. By court order, creditors are forbidden to garnish his wages, repossess his belongings, or harass him with threatening letters and telephone calls.

True, not every debtor can qualify for the Wage Earner Plan. The court will approve a debtor's application only if he is earning enough to make the payment plan feasible—and if enough of his creditors agree. Furthermore, he must have the moral commitment to stay within a frugal budget during the payoff period.

But the benefits of the Plan are notable. It offers the distressed debtor a chance to "get out from under" with comparatively little damage to his credit record. Also, it may play a major role in preserving his self-respect.

Creditors benefit too. The Plan offers them a reasonable prospect of collecting their debts, whereas in the bankruptcy situation they usually collect nothing at all.

Not long ago a man living on Social Security, overwhelmed by debts, turned to the Wage Earner Plan for relief. Two disgruntled creditors objected that he could not qualify because he was not a "wage earner."

But the court, pointing out that Social Security income is based on past wages, decided to accept the man's application. The court said that in dealing with the problems of debt, any solution that is so good for all concerned ought to be encouraged.
